

ABSTRACT

A bi-directional point to multipoint communications system using a wired/wireless communications link for high speed mobile data transfer. A cable television plant is used in 5 the wired portion of the communications link. Antenna nodes connected throughout the cable television plant convert downlink signals from the cable television plant into a format (such as COFDM signals) suitable for transmission over a wireless link to mobile subscriber units.

03825189-040401